Read the text below and answer the questions 8-12.

"Hi, Jack, how are you?"

"Hello! Who is that?"

"It's me, Mike. Don't you recognize my voice? Look, I've called you to ask about the maths homework. Have you done it yet? I really need the answers to those problems. I don't understand a thing and you know that the teacher told me that he was going to check my every move. I really can't stand him. He is such a bore. I know he is your father and I shouldn't say such things but, you understand. Besides, I'd rather go to the movies than stay home all evening and study. Well, what do you say? Will you give them to me? And then we could go to the movies together. Just tell your father you have to study with Tom for the geography test. By the way, have you told your dad about the 4 at History? He's not going to be happy. Poor you!

Come on! Say something! Are you still there?"
